Audiovisual Collections

The Department of Archives and Special Collections' audiovisual materials are comprised of over 3,800 hours of recordings (approximately 7,100 items). Los Angeles history in the late 20th century is highlighted in six of our non-commercial, news and public affairs television collections. Two collections hold production files including administrative notes, script revisions, shooting schedules, contracts, and expense reports. This section also contains documentaries on Jesuit missions in South America. A selection of programs from the KCET-TV Collection of Life and Times video recordings (CSLA-37) have been digitized and made available on the Internet Archive through a partnership with the California Audiovisual Preservation Project (CAVPP).

Inquiries and appointments to use the holdings are made with the Department of Archives and Special Collections: Special.Collections@lmu.edu | 310-338-5710.

Accessing Audiovisual Materials:

Collections are open to research under the terms of use of the Department of Archives and Special Collections, Loyola Marymount University. Most of the audiovisual materials, however, are not currently in a format which researchers may access.

If the department does not already own a researcher access copy, duplication of original format program tapes will be required for research use, in accordance with departmental policy: "Certain media formats may need specialized third party vendor services." The cost of reproduction, to be paid fully by patron, will include 1) any necessary preservation efforts upon the original, 2) a master digital file to be retained by Archives and Special Collections, 3) a researcher viewing copy (DVD) to be retained by Archives and Special Collections, and 4) the patron copy (DVD). Pricing and project time-frame will be quoted upon individual request." The length of time for duplication of tapes will depend on vendor services and the payment for these services by the party requesting the duplication of a videotape.
